

MONOLOGUES FOR AUDITION FOR QUALITY ARTS

BOYS (aged 12 to 14)

OPTION 1:

Maybe what I did was wrong. But I couldn't stand seeing my best friend so depressed and watching that girl walk away scot-free! Jett has the best personality in the world! He's funny, smart, and has so many great qualities. And she had the audacity to use him and throw him away! Which is why I had to get revenge. It was all for him. (beat) First, I gave her the cold shoulder. Then, I started exposing her. You would be surprised at how many lies one girl can tell! I shared all her dirty little secrets with her friends, and they spread like wildfire. But I didn't bully her, I just exposed her. Is that wrong?

OPTION 2:

That's right. I've got it all figured out. My escape plan is solid. First, I've got my backpack filled with all the essentials- My favourite book, my iPad, a flashlight, socks, and candy. Next, I'm gonna head to the park. The one with the giant oak tree that's good for climbing. I'll set camp up there because nobody will see me, but I'll have a view of the whole neighbourhood. I've even got a little sign that says, "Welcome to my new home." Just in case anyone wants to visit. But I'll be the boss, and I get to make up all the rules. That's right. Rule number one: no grown-ups allowed.
